

Immigration Assessment Summary

British Columbia Score: 40

Nova Scotia Score: 60

Assessment Summary

Based on the scores provided, here's a summary of the results:

You have applied to immigrate to Canada under the Express Entry program, and your Comprehensive Ranking System (CRS) score is being considered by two provinces: British Columbia and Nova Scotia.

Your score in British Columbia is 40, which is considered a relatively lower score compared to other candidates. British Columbia generally looks for candidates with higher CRS scores, so it's unlikely that you would be invited to apply to a BC Nominee Program stream currently.

Your score in Nova Scotia is 60, which is a relatively mid-range score compared to other candidates. Nova Scotia generally considers candidates with scores in this range to be competitive, but not necessarily guaranteed to be invited.

Considering the scores from both provinces, it may be beneficial to take some time to review your profile and consider potential options for improvement. You may also want to research other provinces or streams that may be a good fit for your profile and experience.

In the meantime, we recommend keeping your Express Entry profile up to date and exploring other immigration options that may be available to you.
